HAVAS AGENCY
Paris, 5th.

In reference to possible Cabinet changes when the new Chambers meet, nothing positive is known, but the tone of the semi-official Press forebodes the resignation of the present Ministers. Nothing especially interesting from Algiers or Tunis. Since the fight at Taghannout no other is reported. Preparations on a large scale for energetic offensive movements are going on.

PRESS ASSOCIATION.

Many years ago a French gentleman tried to bring all the editors together and form a kind of Press club, or mutual association. Hector Varela and some others were then in the ascendant, and the scheme fell through, for what cause we cannot well recollect. Our talented colleague La Republica now resuscitates the idea, which, to judge by the leader in the Nation and some other colleagues, receives a kind of faint support that forbids abortion.

Press Associations exist in many other parts, but whether it be from the peculiar, snarly disposition of editors, or the eternal conflict of mind and opinion and we may say interest, these Press associations have never soared to a higher aim than the price of telegrams, or reports of Parliament and Police Courts.

A Press club, where all the editors sit once a week under the same mahogany, is as yet unknown to the world, and it, through the aesthetic efforts of the Republica it be carried out here, it may well be added to the wonders of the world.

The arrest and imprisonment of many of our colleagues by Congress last week naturally suggests the necessity of a little more coalition. United, the press of Buenos Ayres might not only effect much but effect everything; but so many discordant elements are at work that we, for one, although willingly giving our vote in favor of the proposed association, consider the scheme Utopian.

To walk in a public funeral, sit together at a Te Deum, or even join in an excursion to Mna. Calzetta's Island on a summer holiday, may be regarded as the extreme jurisdiction of a Press association; but to join hands and proclaim reform—demand of the Tribunals the execution of murderers—compel the Government with a chorus of leading articles to protect life in the camp, reduce taxes, and foment industry—these are the real banners which the proposed press club should carry.

The disunion that exists amongst the members of the press is, perhaps, a secret equalizing negative which Nature establishes to save the world from a power which, if combined, might upset even society itself. We have before our own eyes in the simple measure to give the poor, overworked shopboys and clerks a slight respite on Sunday.

Nothing could be more meritorious.

Nothing more just.

Nothing more desirable.

Yet all the editors in town are split upon the question, and the few who view in the measure the supreme law of all, 'Salus populi,' meet with an abuse which is every way undeserved.

We unite with the Republica in its effort at coalition, and hope that our colleague will triumph over all those dissolving elements which leave us editors as poor and powerless to day as when we first embarked on the wild ocean of public opinion.

THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A TREASURY BOND, ESQ.

It was in the city of Buenos Aires, on the 24th of October, 1876, that I was first ushered into this world of sin and excitement.

My father, Natl. Government, Esq., holds a very fair position in society. He is young and vigorous, and yet I can scarcely say he has a sound constitution. My mother had not been at all well, and had suffered from a severe attack of 'cicis' for two or three years before my advent.

In consequence I suffered from lack of nourishment, and my survival—whether, in fact, I belonged to the 'fittest'—was for some time doubtful.

At this period my father placed me in charge of a tutor—Mr. V. Plaza—and under his fostering care I began to thrive. It was some time, however, before I became thoroughly strong, and even then it was generally felt that I might do better in Europe.

In 1880 some friends who took an interest in me interceded and got me shipped off to London, and my father's affairs about this period having greatly improved, I entered on my new career under highly favorable auspices. I found myself gradually coming into notice, was soon being mentioned in the most fashionable society in Lombard-street, and high premiums were paid for the honor of having me.

I came occasionally into contact in London with some elder brothers of mine, rejoicing in the names of 'Sixty-eights,' 'Seventy-ones' and 'Hard Dollars.' As they had all gone abroad long before I was born there was not much brotherly feeling between us, and as I found myself in a superior position, and holding a higher premium in

LATEST FROM RIO CUARTO.

(From our own Correspondent)

I learn from a late number of the Standard that cattle from Cordoba are selling in the northern Partidos of Buenos Aires at $200 p. head. No cattle can be bought at this price in the Province of Cordoba. The inference is that these cattle are stolen.

The Standard would do well to draw the attention of the authorities to this matter, as rumors of robbery are rife in this district. On these open plains it is an easy matter for cattle-lifters to set all police regulations concerning 'ganias' at defiance, but it should not be easy to sell stolen cattle in the more settled districts of another Province. Last year Don Alejandro Roca, brother of the President, had the wires of one of his fenced estancias cut, and a large party of cattle driven off, of which not the slightest trace could be discovered, although it was well known who the thief was.

Where rains have fallen the new grass is springing up vigorously, but the rain so far has come in 'manjares,' and in many places the arid aspect of winter yet prevails; the winds raise clouds of sand; the lagunas still show as deposits of white salt, and cattle travel far in search of water, while the horses eager when the green grass is yet under their hoofs, are turned back to the pasture in July. The sheep are being picked up more rapidly, and the cows are commencing to drop their calves, but heavy rain is much needed to obliterate the effect of the destructive 'quemazones' of the past season.

The good people of San Juan are eager concerning a project which lies at present, I believe, before Congress. The extension of the Andine line as now proposed is from San Luis to Mendoza, thence northwards parallel to the Cordillera to San Juan. The San Juaninos do not want to go to Mendoza, but they want to go as quickly as possible to Rosario and Buenos Aires. They wish to suppress the last section of this extension and to run a branch direct from San Juan to the Desaguadero, about seven leagues west of San Luis. This branch would save them thirty leagues in their journey to San Luis, would run over a flat country almost free from engineering difficulties, could be constructed simultaneously with the section from San Luis to Mendoza, and at one half the cost of the line from Mendoza to San Juan, which passes over a very difficult country. I hope to see this project meet the approval of Congress, for it is much more according to common sense than a main line through out bushes as feeders to the traffic, than that it waste time and money running where it is not wanted.

Neither time nor money have been wasted in the extension to San Luis. The earthworks are reported to be the best on the line, and have been pushed forward with great vigor. Greater vigor still is to be displayed when they pass San Luis; two thousand men are now employed; this number is shortly to be doubled.

The French rails coming forward from Crouzet are far from giving satisfaction, and tons of them have been rejected by the Government Inspector as defective. I have been informed on good authority that in some lots landed at Rosario as much as fifty per cent have been rejected. The difficulty about sleepers seems to have been overcome, and in spite of the many drawbacks it is expected that the line will be open to San Luis by the end of the year.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The city was startled yesterday morning by the announcement of another awful case of suicide, a young antiquarian, Don Juan Antonio Rodriguez, having shot himself. Deceased, who was widely known and esteemed in society, was about town on his business all day on Wednesday. He returned to his grandmother's house in Calle Garantias at dinner hour, and just as the family sat down to table, three shots were heard in his room. On rushing in they found that he had fired three bullets through his heart, and was stone dead. He sent a letter half an hour before his intimate friend, Don Luis O. Morales, enclosing $5,000 $ m.p. for his funeral expenses. The diario hints that the unfortunate man was not right in his head, but the Nacion states distinctly that the loss on the Bolsa were at the bottom of the awful tragedy. The mind stands fairly appalled at the recent spread of suicide in the Plata. Has the Demon of Ubelstein seized the people for good and all?

The weather cleared up gloriously yesterday, and excepting the profound mud in the suburbs, the hot sun made short work of all vestige of Wednesday's tremendous rain. 'Sout vent fema, varié' said Francis the First. What would His Majesty have said of River Plate weather, could he have known it?

Congress is settling down to work at the heel of the hunt. The Riachuelo Expropriation Bill was passed by the National Deputies on Wednesday. The works now belong exclusively to the Nation. Mr Wood-gate's Dock Bill was referred back to Committee, and we hope to see it despatched soon.

There was a milk and butter squeeze at the South end of town yesterday morning, and dry porridge and black tea were the order of the day. The Dick Turpin on the South road waylaid all the 'lecheros' from Quilmes and did not leave them either milk or money. This is the twentieth case of the kind in the Southern suburbs of late. Where are the police?

The news from Chili is important. Pielola is now imprisoning all foreigners who refuse to pay his war contributions. On the Chilean side, Messrs Novoa and Altamirano are going to Lima with definite orders to arrange either a peace or a definite peace with Peru, or the permanent occupation of all that country by Chilean troops. The last is a dream, and we fear the first is all but one.

The Provincial Government has advertised in all the London papers for tenders to construct all the new buildings in the new Capital of the province. As usual, however, in these cases the thing has been so managed that the London architects cannot possibly prepare their plans within the time specified.

We are going ahead here in the inventive way. The Rural Society's Show gives some proofs of the fact, and now we find that a settler at the Libertad Colony, named Casalle, has asked the National Government for a ten years' patent for a new steam plough capable of ploughing a square acre of land in 2 hours.

The Centro Industrial Argentino has resolved to take no part in the Continental Exhibition unless the National Government does likewise. We don't like to see this difference of opinion in a matter where all should agree and join heart and hand, and we only hope that the superstitious fears of the Plaza Once men, as to the Exhibition ever coming off, may not prove well founded in the long run.

An idle thriftless scoundrel who lives with a friend who is quite his antithesis in every way, being sober, industrious and thrifty, rose the other night while the latter slept and stole all the money in his pocket. When arrested and questioned by the Commissioner, the audacious rascal said that as his friend was a good spendthrift, he took the money to keep it safe for him; and he was then told to produce the cash, when he said he had lodged it with a 'fondero,' as security for a good dinner advanced to him! This is the freest kind of mortgage operation we have yet heard of.

The Rev. Father Foran, of the Falkland Islands, left yesterday for San Pedro to assist the Rev. Father Flannery, the Irish Chaplain of that district, during the Jubilee.

The Industrial Club has promised to stump up the 'needful' for sinking an artesian well in Plaza Once to supply the Exhibition works with water.

Three of our imprisoned colleagues will be released this morning, but the other three have still 12 days' incarceration to go through. They have all got prodigiously fat, having nothing to do all day but eat, drink, sleep and be as merry as they can under the circumstances.

The Antiobiquity of A. Treasury Bond, Esq., is another column, contributed by a leading subscriber, is very tickling. It is painful to see a member of financial High Life so decidedly 'out' by his former associates, and all through his father's fault. It is generally the other way, and the 'governor' is the aggrieved party.

The news from the United States (in our Supplement) shows that President Garfield was removed to Long Branch from Washington before he died. It is strange that Havas told us nothing of this, and we had to wait for the papers to learn it.

It rained 'gatos,' 'perros' and 'orquillas perpendiculares' on Wednesday in most parts of the camp, and people are very nervous about floods. Many fear that all this 'agua' at this time of year will be followed by a dry summer with its unpleasant concomitants of sickness, locusts, quarantine, etc. etc.

The manager of Burgos's grand 'magazin' in Calle Cangallo received an anonymous letter the other day saying that one of his shopmen and a waiter in the beer hall Gambirini, next door, were engaged in a system of stealing the goods of the firm.

The police were informed, and at once arrested both the accused, who confessed their guilt. A number of valuable articles stolen from the shop were found in the waiter's room in the beer hall.

There is no longer any doubt as to Colonel Latore having been in Argentine territory. A letter from Tatati states that he arrived there on the 27th September. The police at first made some show of interfering with him, but subsequently changed their mind. The National Government, it is said, has notified the Colonel that he must not reside on the river's bank; if he wishes to remain on Argentine soil.

There was a stiff breeze and heavy sea at Montevideo yesterday, and many steamers postponed their sailing.

We cut the following High Life scraps from our exchanges by the Araucania:

'The Hon. Lionel Sackville West, recently British Minister at the Court of Madrid, and who has been appointed to succeed Sir Edward Thornton as Minister to the United States, is expected to leave towards the end of the ensuing month for Washington.'

'The marriage of Lady Henrietta St. Lawrence and Captain Lee Guinness, late of the Royal Horse Guards, Blue, brother of Lord Ardillan, took place at Howth, near Dublin, yesterday. The marriage was solemnized in Howth Protestant Church by the Archbishop of Dublin, who was assisted by the rector of the parish, the Rev. Mr. Kerr. The bride was given away by her brother the Earl of Howth. The Hon. Mr. Lawless, brother of Lord Olenquay, was groomsmen.'

'The Prince of Wales, accompanied by Colonel Teesdale, visited the scene of the great fire in Cheshire yesterday, and was shown over the ruins by Colonel Bowman, the City Police Commissioner. Great speculations had to be taken in showing his Royal Highness into the different burnt buildings, as many of the outer walls had become severely cracked through the intense heat to which they were exposed during the progress of the fire. As many large pieces of stone coping were continually falling from the lofty side and front walls of Messrs. Foster's premises, it was deemed requisite for his Royal Highness not to get too near these dangerous parts. Besides the destruction of Messrs. Oor, Hill and Co.'s and Messrs. Foster and Co.'s, there are seven other buildings nearly reduced to a heap of ruins; and it was feared that the whole of the trade books, bills, &c., belonging to the latter, had been consumed. A search was made yesterday by the Salvage Corps, and while turning over the ruins they came upon two of Milner's safes which had fallen from the upper floor into the basement of Messrs. Oor, Hill and Co.'s and Messrs. Foster's premises. Their contents were found to be uninjured. The loss sustained by the fire is estimated at nearly £500,000 sterling.'

There is much anxiety to hear from Dr. Jorga about the 20 million loan; they say the Prov. Government had an offer from a leading house here of 30 free of commission, which was a very good bid, and which we doubt if Dr. Jorga will improve on.

It is paid to-day to the creditors of the outside who stopped payment last month; this payment is only on account; all the creditors are against the party in question, before the Courts.
